Congressional Session Comes to Close and Members Leave Washington for Home

Some of the Things Done—Session as Whole Will Show Up Well with Some Wholesome Legislation—President's Veto of McNairy-Haugen Farm Relief Bill May Stifle Republicans among Western Farmers—Much Said about Prospective Candidates and What They Have Spent in Campaign—Passage of Flood Control Law Will Serve to Guarantee New Day for Mississippi Valley Territory.

Washington, D. C., May 30.—Congress has "quit". The members have returned whence they came. Some of them go home to face a contest for the seats they hold. Upon the whole, the present session of congress has a pretty fair record of accomplishments. Perhaps the outstanding piece of legislation is the flood control law. Many farseeing men think that the passage of that bill marks a new epoch in the history of the middle west and of the Mississippi Valley territory.

If Thomas Jefferson could appear upon the scene now, he could interpret some of the visions that came to him when he purchased from France the Louisiana Territory which embraces what is now a large part of the territory which will be the beneficiary of the flood control law. As the years roll by, the greatness of Jefferson's mind and the foundations he insisted on for this government grow upon the thinking man.

Speaking of the flood control law, it is hardly less than a wonder why the government has waited all these years to try to harness and control the waters of the Mississippi river. Especially is this true, when it is known that the federal government has reserved to itself control of the river. No bridge can be built without the approval of the War Department and a special act of congress. Not only does this pertain to the Mississippi river, but to all other streams. If your town is on a river, my guess is that you can not erect a bridge across it without the approval of congress. The flood control law contemplates not only controlling the waters of the river which was first seen by a white man when Desoto stood upon its banks at Memphis, but of the larger rivers in the territory where they pour their waters into the Mississippi. The law underwrites for the Mississippi delta. The law serves to guarantee to property owners that what they invest in improving their farms and what they invest in schools, and other things shall not be carried away by overflow waters. One reads now in ancient history about the richness of the valley of the Nile—a region still alluvial and highly productive, but readers of history in the years to come will read about the flood control bill and what it did for a section far richer and more versatile in production than the Nile of Egypt.

The farmers caught it in the neck. But that is not a new thing. They have been catching it under the chin for years. The President saw fit to veto the McNary-Haugen bill framed to take care of the surplus of cotton and corn, and wheat and other farm products. The western farmers were wild almost for the bill or something like it. The President stated the case against the bill in the very strongest terms. There are many who can not see how the President can reason so logically when it comes to relief legislation for the farmers, and yet he is unwilling to take from the manufacturers of the east the tribute the protective tariff levies upon the balance of the country. The tariff benefits directly not over 15,000,000 people; it takes toll out of the pockets of 100,000,000 to make richer this fifteen million. As a proof of this, the east is the very richest section of the Union. The farmers are bent under burdens of debt. They make good crops, yet the more they make the less they get. However, it is a very debatable question about what the farmer needs most and whether or not the legislation carried in the McNary-Haugen bill would have proved beneficial to the real producer. It must be admitted that the bill carried a provision for a commission and for boards and boards. How it could have operated without this, no one can say. Anyway, the farmers were knocked out of the box and congress adjourned leaving 85 per cent of them with their farms mortgaged.

Congressman Finis Garrett, Democratic minority leader and a candidate for the United States senate, gave some days ago in a speech the following symposium of the bill which will place it in plain terms before your readers:

"The most recent of them, which passed just a few days ago, as did its predecessor, had as its fundamental basis what is known as an 'equalization fee.'

"It provided that a board of 12 men should be appointed by the president. It was made the duty of this board to survey domestic and world conditions as to crop output, the idea being to try and determine the amount of surplus produced or likely to be produced in any one year (taken in connection with stocks that might be on hand) over and above the quantity required for domestic consumption. The bill applied to all products except fruits and vegetables, the board being given authority to function as to all others.

Seven on All Sides.

"It was further provided that the board should select from lists furnished them by co-operative marketing and similar organizations seven men who should constitute a commodity council, a council for each product, that is to say, there would be a council of seven for tobacco, selected by the tobacco co-operatives; seven for cotton, selected from the cotton growers' associations; seven for wheat from their organizations, and so on through the line. The board of 12, acting upon the advice of the commodity councils, was clothed with authority and it was made their duty upon finding as a fact that a surplus of a commodity would exist, to declare an operating period for such commodity and proceed to function. When the board should also find as a fact that the revolving fund provided out of the treasury would not be sufficient to hold the surplus from the market it was made its duty to levy a tax, which the bill called an 'equalization fee,' upon a unit of the commodity, the aggregate amount of which fees was to constitute what was called in the bill a stabilization fund. The idea of the bill was to withhould from the market an amount of the product sufficient to leave just enough to supply the domestic demand at a price which, while the bill did not say so, would necessarily have to be fixed by the board. The stabilization fund was to be used by the boards in withholding this surplus, which eventually would have to be sold abroad at the world price.

An Illustration.

"Perhaps its workings can be better understood if we try to illustrate by a single commodity, and for this purpose let us take cotton, the great southern product.

"Of that a surplus is always produced. I mean a surplus over domestic demand. Most frequently this surplus is as much as 65 per cent. The price of cotton, therefore, is fixed in the world market.

"Suppose in a given year the world market price is $75 per bale. The board determines to bring the domestic price up to $100 a bale. It determines the amount of domestic demand and so ascertains

Onlooker Foretells Committee Reports

Jackson Correspondent Prophesies What "Book" Committees Will Say—Thinks Printing Plant More Remote than Ever—Discusses Gossip of Removing College Heads.

Jackson, Miss., May 30.—Have been moping around Jackson somewhat like the boy who had a pocket full of rocks with nothing at which to throw them since the legislators went back home.

After the legislature came the Hinds County grand jury to which Gov. Bilbo is said to have committed all the evidence he could rake and scrape, rat hole and key hole. That body evidently thought the evidence was more shadow than substance for the reason that no indictments were returned. The judge mentioned the alleged bribery charges in his charge to the grand jury. The men of the alleged "Book Trust" were on hand. They walked about the streets. Occasionaly they would saunter into the court room. They lounged about the hotels. Their attorneys were there, too, but behold the mountain did not bring forth even a mouse.

Gov. Bilbo has been sick since the legislators left here. There is no joking about it, either. He has been doctor sick, not book plant sick. But he is out again and it is promised for him that he is going out and talk to the people about the lawmaking body refusing to "cooperate with" him in not making an appropriation of $650,000. for the book plant thereby creating more soft jobs that are taken care of out of the pockets of the tax payers. The Governor has named a committee to go into the lone two states which have plants to print school books and then come back and tell him. Likewise the Speaker of the lower house has named another committee to go into the land of Canaan. It is remembered that the sacred record tells us about what Joshua did when he wanted a report on Canaan. He sent spies just as Gov. Bilbo and Speaker Bailey are doing. Joshua's investigators submitted no expense bills, if they did there is no record of them. But you can lay your dimes down beside a ginger cake that there will be some expense bills submitted by the members of these two committees. And one would hardly have any trouble in writing their reports in advance. Gov. Bilbo's committee will say about this. "Dear Governor: We have went and have did what you wanted us to do. Them book plants

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL WINS THIRD IN ESSAY CONTEST

Miss Louise Odom, pupil in Grenada High School, won third honors among Mississippi school girls who entered the annual "Keeping Fit" essay contest conducted by the Mississippi State Board of Health. She was awarded $10 in cash as her prize.

About 20,000 boys and girls throughout the state competed and it is quite a signal honor to achieve distinction among this number. It is but in keeping, however, with the splendid record established previously by Grenada students and with the standing of scholarship of Grenada school boys and girls.

GRENADA HI SCHOOL ENDS GREAT SESSION

Total Enrollment during Year Was 864—Diplomas Awarded Friday Evening, May 25th—Medals Given Outstanding Students—Seventeen Graduates In Class.

The exercises at the high school auditorium on last Friday night marked the closing of a most successful school year. A total enrollment of 864 pupils for the year with an unusually large average attendance result from appreciation of the city school system and the absence of any epidemic of disease. The cooperation of patrons, the generous support given by business men and organizations have inspired a most wholesome and happy atmosphere in and about the Grenada schools.

The several events constituting the commencement season were the fashion show of the home economics department two weeks ago, the delightful and wonderfully acted play, "Seventeen", on Friday night, May 18th, the commencement sermon on Sunday May 20th, the class day exercises on the afternoon of Thursday and then the annual address and graduation on Friday night.

Dr. A. B. Butts, of the A. & M. College, brought a scholarly and inspiring message on "Government and Education". The speaker was thoroughly grounded in his subject and forcefully and clearly showed the relation of government to education and education to government. His discussion of the practical side and value of education made a strong impression on the graduating class and the large audience.

Superintendent John Rundle, in his parting remarks to the graduating class stressed the need for every boy and girl to determine to go somewhere from present attainments. Mr. Rundle's address was a gem in many respects. He held aloft the purest ideals and drew pictures of the stars and a galaxy of the good things ahead for those who set their sails in the right direction. The diplomas were presented to the class by Mr. J. B. Perry, president of the board of trustees.

The most beautiful part of the exercises was the appearance of the junior class with flowers for the graduates. Never were more beautiful bouquets placed at the feet of graduates on the high school rostrum.

Following the flower feature Mr. Cowles Horton, another member of the board, presented medals as follows: to Miss Mary Ada Richardson a medal from the Interstate Trust & Banking Company of New Orleans for the best essay on Flood Control; to Aubrey Perkins the merit medal given by Mr. Harper Lake of New York City for the best general merit pupil in the eighth grade; to David Young Dubard the high school merit medal given by Mr. E. J. Weyneth of Grenada. Miss Louise Odom was the valedictorian and Joe B. Williams the salutatorian of the class.

AGE TAKES R. D. (BISHOP) RANSOM

Old age and illness ended the life journey of Mr. R. D. Ransom, frequently called "Bishop", Sunday night at the Grenada Hospital. His remains were laid to rest in Woodlawn Memorial Park Monday, May 28, at 1 o'clock p. m. after appropriate funeral services conducted by Rev. J. H. Holder. He was 72 years of age. For more than a quarter of a century he had been a cripple, having broken his leg and in some way the broken limb was much shorter than the other. He will be missed on the street corners of Grenada where he was wont to sit and sell shoe strings and lead pencils. He had no enemies and if he thought anything evil of anybody, few, if any, were aware of it. He was a member of the Baptist church. His wife died some years ago and little had been seen of his children for many years. Peace to his ashes.

Countiss Discusses Development Work

Grenada Rotary Club Entertains 34 Guests at Meet Wednesday—College Head Gives Splendid Review Year's Work of Farm [illegible]. Shows Strides Made in Dairying.

Grenada Rotarians had as their guests for their luncheon Wednesday, May 30, thirty-four people representing almost every business and profession in Grenada County. They were invited especially to hear a resume of the activities of the Grenada County Farm Development Association, organized little more than a year ago to promote interest in dairying in this immediate section.

Dr. J. R. Countiss, president of Grenada College and member of the Rotary club, was the speaker of the occasion. Dr. Countiss first assured the vititors of a wholehearted welcome and told them that they would always be welcomed at the meetings of the club. He explained the purpose of Rotary, how it is organized in a town by taking one representative from each line of activity. He pointed out that Rotary was by no means an exclusive organization, saying that it had no secrets, no obligation nor oath and no password but that its meetings might be attended at any time by one not a member. He said that some Rotarians had the idea that the subject of business was taboo in the club and he chided them for this idea, declaring that business must be mixed in with the club activities in order for the club to live and properly function. He called attention to the fact that Rotary never transgresses on what other organizations are doing but that it does extend and lend its cooperation whenever possible to all community enterprises.

Dr. Countiss spoke of the organization of the Grenada County Farm Development Association and gave figures showing the amount that had been pledged by business interests for its maintenance. He said that approximately $700 of these pledges were uncollected. Of the amount paid in, he showed what had been spent and for what purposes. He compared the milk shipments from the Grenada depot during the month of May, 1927, with those of the same month this year. In May, of last year, an average of 620 gallons of milk, or 1884 pounds of butterfat, were shipped daily from the Grenada depot. This year, for the first 28 days of May, 2335 gallons of milk, or 7098 pounds of butterfat were shipped. Thus it may be seen very readily that progress in the dairying movement has been made. The May, 1928, shipments are almost four times greater than they were a year ago and it was stated that corresponding increases have been made in shipments from other Grenada county stations.

The speaker told of the amount of money, something approximating $10,000, that had been loaned for the purchase of dairy cows, he told how these loans are being repaid and how readily the borrowers are meeting their notes. He pointed out that Grenada County's chief resource, its timber, would soon be exhausted and that it behooved this section to turn to dairying for greater prosperity. He closed by congratulating those present, both Rotarians and guests, practically every one of whom had taken some part in the dairying campaign, on the results of their work and on their cooperation in fostering this great community enterprise.

President Roland Jones further expressed the club's gladness at having its guests Tuesday and he added just a few words to what Dr. Countiss had said about the development work.

Rotarian Nelson Taylor was a guest at the luncheon. He is a member of the Greenwood club.

THE SCOUT CAMP

The Boy Scouts of Grenada are enjoying themselves this week at a camp out near the home of Hon. W. A. Winter. They are under the wing of their splendid leader, Rev. R. W. Emerson. The Girl Scouts have been visiting the camp and altogether a great time is being had by these fine young people. It is a great thing for anybody to get away from the hurly burly of town and out into the country for a few days where they can catch the daylight songs of the birds and where Nature can speak to them with all of its compelling force and power. Those who are aiding the young people in these diversions are performing a good service.

HIGHLANDER NEWS

The Grenada Highlanders hiked out to Bledsoe's well Monday to play and eat. Two teams were chosen, the Panthers and the Bull Dogs. Harry Rayburn and Byron McCaslin pitched for the Panthers while Mr. McLeod and Frank Horton pitched for the Bull Dogs. The score was thirteen to twelve in favor of the Panthers. Umpire Mr. Horton. We had twenty present and hope next time that all of the Highlanders will be on hand. After the ball game, we enjoyed weinies and cold drinks.

AWARD OF DIPLOMAS ENDS COLLEGE YEAR

Twenty-three Are Graduated from Institution at Tuesday Exercises—Countiss Rounds Out 18th Year as President and Receives Strong Endorsement from Trustees.

The closing exercises of Grenada College were concluded Tuesday with the awarding of the diplomas to the 23 graduates. The annual sermon was preached by Dr. J. L. Decell of Jackson. The baccalaureate address was made by Dr. W. W. Holmes, D. D.

This year rounds out the 18th for Dr. John R. Countiss, president.

Much has been done to improve the college, to add to its equipment and to erect new buildings since he became its head.

Monday morning the board of trustees of which Judge J. G. McGowen of the state supreme court is president, met in annual session. An additional indorsement was given by the trustees of Dr. Countiss' administration.

The faculty was chosen for the next session and with but a few exceptions, all the old instructors are to return. The educational commission which was placed in charge of presenting the proposition of selling $300,000 in bonds to still further equip the college and to make still more certain of meeting the standards required by the Southern Association of Colleges, gave its approval to every step that has been cast in all the district for giving the matter its personal and enthusiastic support.

With regard to raising the $300,000 additional, but one single vote has been cast in all the district conferences of the church against the proposition.

Grenada has no finer, more enduring or better set, measured by every standard, than Grenada College. This institution has been a part of Grenada so long that one sometimes may think that Grenada citizens take too much for granted.

The session just closing has been an epoch-making one in many particulars. Times flies, somebody wrote in the years ago. In this day, it appears that the wings that carry time have redoubled their powers and effectiveness. But with all the fastness of the age, the college has kept the pace—not the pace that too many of the age are keeping, but it has kept the pace that counts for time and for Eternity. The young lady who enters Grenada College for her college training, is more than fortunate. The best testimony to this is the character, success and life of the graduates gone out from there. But bigger things are just ahead for the college, and when it is stated that greater things are ahead for the college, it is also meant that greater things are to come to Grenada because of the college.

Dr. John R. Countiss, who has been serving as president for 18 years, is a scholar, an able divine, an interested and most useful citizen, a strong factor for all that is good with many of the elements of the real statesman and the maker of the best history. Grenada College has grown wonderfully under his leadership and he seems to get busier all the while for all that a real college for young women means.

When the young ladies depart for their homes after commencement, the town misses them in many ways. They make a beautiful picture as they march up and down the streets of Grenada, one that the thoughtful mind no doubt stops often to conjecture about in many ways and particularly the future for these young ladies.

The prospects are that the next session will find the greatest number of students on hand that the college has ever enrolled. If the plans which are on foot materialize it will be only a very few years when there will be 400 young women in attendance.

JUDGE McLEAN VERY ILL

The Sentinel feels that Grenadians will learn with anxiety that Judge Wm. C. McLean is regarded critically ill at Dunedin, Fla., where he has been spending the greater part of his time for the past two years. The judge's condition has been regarded as grave for more than a week, however, his family have understood for sometime that he was apprehensive about himself. The judge yearns to get back to Grenada and especially has he enjoined his family to get him here if they should conclude that his illness will likely be fatal.

Dr. Brown and Simpson Have Altercation on Grenada Streets Saturday Afternoon

Pistols Presented and One by Accident Discharged—Trouble Grew Out of What Simpson's Wife Is Reputed to Have Said of Dr. Brown—Both Men before Mayor and Both Waive Examination and Make Bond—Leading Citizens Volunteer to Sign Brown's Bond—Simpson Got Three Signers in Another County—Affair Sequel to Brown's Report on Grave Criminal Charge against Simpson.

The usual Saturday afternoon serenity of Grenada was broken last Saturday afternoon when an altercation arose between Dr. T. J. Brown and J. P. Simpson, just between the doors of the Dyre-Kent Drug Co. and R. H. Herring's store, which was followed by a pistol shot. The pistol is said to have been discharged by accident and while constable R. M. Wood was struggling with Dr. Brown who drew the weapon. The constable had a pistol strapped on his person perfectly visible. He and Simpson came along the street together when Dr. Brown accosted Simpson, and it is stated that Simpson at once grabbed the constable's gun into his own hands when Dr. Brown felt that he found it necessary to reach for his weapon.

It is generally understood that the affair grew out of certain statements which it is alleged Mrs. Simpson made about Dr. Brown, in which it was stated that she said she used a term to Dr. Brown which reflected on his mother and which southern men regard as the very meanest and worst insult. It was further stated to Dr. Brown that Mrs. Simpson had stated that he had made a proposal to her that reflected on her as a lady, and this fact, it was stated, she alleged, was the main cause for Dr. Brown having made the report he did on the 11 year old negro girl which he was requested to visit and examine by county prosecuting attorney, Sam C. Mims, Jr., when J. P. Simpson was first charged with having had criminal connection with this negro child.

Simpson is best known in these parts as the "Indian medicine man" and is generally referred to as "Doctor".

It appears that Dr. Brown accosted Simpson the first time he saw him after what he had heard with the view of calling him to account for what had been repeated to him as having been made by Mrs. Simpson, and to know whether or not he stood sponsor for what his wife said. It is stated that Simpson stated, when approached by Brown, that his wife did not make the statements which Dr. Brown said had been told him, whereupon Dr. Brown asked Simpson to walk with him down the street to face the man to whom it is said she made them. This, it is stated, Simpson declined to do. Thereupon other hot words followed which warranted Dr. Brown, as he thought, in doing what he did to protect his own life.

Both men were taken into custody at once by City Marshal, J. D. Crenshaw, and carried before his honor, Mayor Doty, who, after affidavits were made charging each with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, fixed their bonds at $1,000. each. Two gentlemen who reside some miles from Grenada in the country went on Simpson's bond. Dozens volunteered to sign Dr. Brown's bond, and it is understood that all legal help and advice necessary were promptly offered by practically every member of the Grenada bar. The hearing of the two cases was set for Monday morning, May 28, 10 o'clock. At the hearing, both parties waived examinations and the bonds of each was again fixed at $1,000. The two gentlemen, it is stated, who went on Simpson's bond Saturday afternoon were in Grenada Monday morning and both of them asked to be relieved of the bond. They both either declined or refused to make a new bond, and it seems that no one else in Grenada appeared ready to sign Simpson's bond so he was allowed to visit Big Creek, in company with Mr. Denton, railway mail clerk, with the view of getting signatures to his bond.

Simpson returned with Mr. Denton with the signatures of three citizens of Calhoun County attached to his bond which was accepted by marshal Crenshaw. It is being stated on the streets that Simpson plans to move to Calhoun County at once.

Nearly all of the best and leading citizens of Grenada who were in the business district Monday morning either sought an opportunity in person to place their names on Dr. Brown's bond or sent word to the officers as the list of 76 of Grenada's stalwart men which appear below show. Marshal Crenshaw stated that Brown's friends had filed a bond for him that amounted to three million dollars.

J. G. Weeks, J. B. Keeton, R. W. Sharp, E. R. Smith, C. H. Calhoon, R. C. Trusty, John T. Keeton, A. N. Rayburn, B. W. Smith, J. T. Thomas, S. M. Cain, R. Q. Nelson, W. M. Mitchell, R. E. Perry, D. B. Brown, A. R. Dockery, J. H. Jackson, Charles F. Goodwin, W. E. Jackson, E. A. Penn, E. E. Penn, Alvin Juchheim, F. S. York, J. B. Perry, Jr., W. P. Moss, Donald Sharp, J. S. Sharp, G. S. Kent, J. C. Perry, Claud Hall, G. M. Lawrence, W. K. Huffington, W. F. Hallam, L. P. Horton, H. J. Ray, B. C. Duncan, W. H. Whitaker, J. K. Avent, H. A. Patterson, W. B. Hoffa, T. F. Houston, O. L. Kimbrough, Jr., Edgar Underwood, A. T. McElwrath, S. H. Horton, T. B. Revell, Jr., J. P. Brooks, Rice Lawrence, J. J. Hardy, E. J. Weyneth, F. S. Hill, W. E. Penn, F. A. Stacy, J. W. Hill, A. G. J. McCaslin, W. F. Martin, A. W. Stokes, R. Pressgrove, F. T. Gerard, George R. Grant, W. R. Turnbo.

Dr. Brown is health officer of Grenada County and one of the county's leading physicians and most prominent citizens. He is a man now past the three score mark. If the number of volunteer signatures to his bond and the character of the men whose names appear thereon be a fair interpretation of what Grenada thinks about the affair into which Dr. Brown has been drawn, then the conclusion is irresistible that the sentiment of the town is overwhelmingly with him.

The reader may speculate as to why Simpson is not incarcerated for the capital charge filed against him for an unspeakable crime. It is in evidence that the negro girl's father withdrew the affidavit against Simpson. Why it was withdrawn of course is more or less at the present time a matter of speculation, but it has been authoritatively stated that some one, or several some ones, managed to get the message or messages to the negro that it might not be well with him that he and his family might be seriously disturbed at night time if the charges were pressed. Who, if anybody, did this, is only a matter at present of conjecture. It is a matter of general knowledge that when officers opened the jail doors to Simpson, after the withdrawal of the charges by the negro above referred to, it was understood that he was to leave Grenada and not return to the state. Notwithstanding Simpson did not, and has not, done this, no officer thus far has seen fit to make another affidavit and rearrest Simpson.

Grenada Father Asks If Parents Are Lax

Submits Communication Appearing in South Mississippi Paper about Public Dance and Drinking and Wonders if Fathers and Mothers Are Loose in Parental Discipline.

Editor Sentinel:

You and your paper stand for moral righteousness. I am therefore asking that you give space in you next issue for the letter which follows and which appeared in a recent issue of the Hattiesburg American under the caption, "Answer wanted". I am asking for the publication of this communication of "A Mother" because what she states is said to be taking place all over the country more or less, and I regret to say that some who ought to know state that Grenada, beautiful Grenada, is not immune to similar occurrences. It seems that there are just enough who attend some of these public dances who think that they cannot cut a "swell" until they begin to swell with moonshine whiskey. Only very recently a serious car accident occurred in which at least some of the occupants were drunk, if the word of one of the good farmers of the county is to be taken as to what took place in front of his home. And this car load was headed for "the dance" in Grenada. I am not condemning the dance; let every one be his or her own judge about that. The writer of the communication which I am submitting to you sounds a warning that all the country should hear. It does seem to me that we are asleep as to some of the most serious things that concern the welfare of our children. Are we training our children "up in the way they should go" in allowing promiscuous car riding in the dead hours of the night? Are we not too careless with our girls and too indifferent and slack with our boys? When the twig is bent wrong the tree will grow wrong. Mr. Editor, please publish.

A Grenada Father and Merchant

Answer Wanted

Dear Sir:

As editor of a daily paper that has a wide circulation I wish to state a situation and ask your readers whom they consider responsible for this situation.

This is a small town that has been known for 25 or 30 years for its decent law abiding citizenship, a town that often has been spoken of as a good place in which to raise your children. In this town within the past year has been

THE "TALK" ABOUT REMOVING PROF. JOE COOK

Every Governor for a number of years has had the matter of a rumored or planned removal of a college head on his hands.

During the Vardaman administration, Dr. Fulton was voted out of the University and Chancellor Kincannon named to succeed him. At the same time Prof. Whitfield was placed at the head of the M. S. C. W. Noel had a big row over Prof. Hardy at the A. & M. College; there was an investigation and a big hubbub. This lapped over into the Brewer administration when Prof. Hardy, a few weeks after Brewer was inaugurated, tendered his resignation and Prof. Hightower was named as his successor. Then came the Bilbo administration when Mr. Hightower was put out and Prof. W. H. Smith named in his stead. Next came the Russell administration which removed Smith and elected Dr. Walker. The same administration ousted Prof. Whitfield at the M. S. C. W. and elected Dr. Fant. Then came the Whitfield administration which eased Prof. Powers out at the University and named Dr. Hume to succeed him. All these men are under the general college board of trustees. During the Brewer administration the present law as to the general college board was enacted; that law sought to protect the public against the political machinations of every incoming Governor. The terms of the trustees were so fixed that a new Governor would not have in his hands at once the naming of a majority of the board. Thus it happens that Gov. Bilbo is confronted with a general college board who are not his partisans.

The college at Hattiesburg, over which Prof. Cook has presided since its creation during the Noel administration, for some reason—and it is stated that this was done mainly at the instance of Prof. Cook,—was not placed under the general board of trustees. Therefore Bilbo has named the new members and it is "his board".

We are very fond of Joe Cook. We esteem him not only as a successful educator but as a friend. He has been a most useful man to the state, but it is well known that it has been said of Mr. Cook that he was Bilbo's supporter during his previous administration and that Joe was well on to turning the tricks politically. This by way of parenthesis and in order that the "record" may be kept "straight".

With these facts before us, and Prof. Cook's signal success as the head of the Hattiesburg institution, togather with his universal popularity and of his high standing Christian character, it is hard to conjecture why there is a desire to punish him(?) He is mentally and physically as active and as vigorous as ever.

Perhaps the desire to have a book plant in Mississippi is the barge floating down stream that is to sink Prof. Cook's boat(?)

We are wondering if he was asked to place his beak into the speakership fight last winter, and we are also wondering if he were not urged to come to Jackson and remain during the legislative session and plead for the establishment of a book plant, and, if after this urging, Prof. Cook did not see fit to remain at Hattiesburg and discharge his duties at the college—was there anything like this(?)

We are further wondering, if, in connection with all this, and the insistent effort being made by a few politicians to get Prof. Bond, state superintendent of education, to resign and accept the presidency to be vacated by Prof. Cook, so that one could be named state superintendent of education who would put all the power of that office—and it is immense—behind the teachers of the state to make them fall in line so far as possible and help "demand" that the legislature pass the book print plant bill—we repeat we are wondering if there is not just one connecting link in all this?

We are further wondering in this same connection if there was any attempt to play book plant politics at the recent State Teachers Association meet at Biloxi where-by one might be chosen to a high office in the Teachers Association who would sponsor printing school books at the expense of the tax payers(?)

If our conjectures are erroneous and we are far off of the track in our surmises herein suggested, will some one authorized to speak and who knows the facts, not turn on the real light?

We are in search of light. Let's not take the matter seriously. College work in Mississippi has gained such a momentum that it cannot be seriously retarded regardless of what college heads go upon the block. Let's get some amusement out of the situation as we go along.

There is one thing dead certain, Prof. Cook has managed to lay by a competence and is ready for the rainy day. Hurrah for Joe. He does not need anybody's sympathy from that angle.

But do not forget that in the shadows of all these things may be seen in the distance "a book plant".

Another thing: Our guess is that Prof. Bond is going to stand pat. He is going to remain in the office to which he was chosen by the people of the state less than a year ago. In doing this, he will meet the approval of the leading educators of the state and a large per cent of the best sentiment of the state.

TRYING TO ENFORCE TRAFFIC REGULATIONS.

The Sentinel desires to commend Marshal J. D. Crenshaw for the sane and sensible effort he is making to have people observe the traffic regulations of the town. The marshal is talking to everybody he finds "over the line", and in the finest sort of a spirit, is telling them that when they violate the regulations they run the risk of either injuring themselves or somebody else. This is proper. Give all a chance to know that it is meant to draw in the line, and then if cooperation is not secured, it is not very far over to the mayor's office where his honor, Mayor Doty, can be consulted.

It is said that the "good Lord takes care of children and drunken men", that is that He used to take care of drunken men before they had an opportunity to know better, and we think that more than half of the automobile drivers are special objects of His care. It has been little less than a marvel that there have not been some fatal automobile accidents in Grenada.

Another thing that the marshal should give attention in this regard is that little children under the required age should not be permitted to drive cars.

Give the marshal your support. He is protecting you, Reader, and maybe your wife and little child.

And it should be borne in mind that the marshal does not expect this just to be "all talk"; if these friendly admonitions are not heeded, then he will have the violator before the mayor.

BILBO DID RIGHT IN COMMUTING SENTENCES.

In our judgment Gov. Bilbo did right in commuting the sentence of the 16 year old negro woman sentenced to hang for taking part in the killing of another negro in Washington County. The Supreme Court, in affirming the case, said that while there was nothing in the record to warrant a reversal, it would have been better satisfied had the woman been given a life sentence.

There was such a public misfortune connected with the trial of the negro in Coahoma County, that we believe the best public ends are subserved by commuting the death sentence of the negro to life imprisonment.

25 YEARS AGO IN GRENADA

From the Files of THE GRENADA SENTINEL

The popular Mr. W. A. West, of Jackson, spent a few days here this week. He came partly to keep Bud Jesse in a good humor, and to arrange for "future events."

Mr. J. E. Holmes, of Jackson, was in Grenada Tuesday, conferring with his exceedingly modest friend, Mr. W. B. Hoffa, on insurance business. He is a popular and affable young gentleman.

Mr. F. M. Runnels, editor of the Meridian Evening Star and candidate for Secretary of State, was in Grenada last Saturday mingling with our people.

The Ayer & Lord Tie Co., of Chicago, which is locating a plant near Grenada, through its superintendent, Mr. J. E. Willard, has decided to use Grenada sand for its building concrete work—after carefully considering numerous samples from other sections of the country.

Quite a large crowd of old veterans as well as married and single ladies and young gentlemen, attended the grand Confederate Reunion at New Orleans this week. Some of them have returned and report having had a most enjoyable time, notwithstanding the city was crowded to its utmost capacity. The following is a partial list of those who attended: Drs. J. W. Young and J. W. Sharp, Sen. B. C. Adams, Judge A. T. Roane, Messrs. John S. King, Wm. Rounsaville, D. L. Holcomb, J. T. Garner, W. B. Winter, C. T. Ross, John Key, Mr. Foreman, Geo. W. Jones, J. H. Bull, W. A. Beck and Boswell Peacock, all members of W. R. Barksdale Camp; Misses Willie Young and Mable King, Maids of Honor, Miss Hattie May Bennett, Sponsor, Mesdames Lizzie Jones, T. E. Heath, J. G. Weeks, Sel Roane and M. L. Bingham; Misses Lizzie Leigh, Birdie Sharp, Margie Jones, Dora Adams and Messrs. J. A. Roane, Richard Laycock, John E. Martin, Sam Cuff, John Keeton, D. W. Beck, Vassar Dubard, Cowles Horton, Ira Rounsaville, Robt. Horton, R. W. Sharp, T. E. Heath, Frank Wright and Will Peacock.

The genial Will M. Caldwell, of Jackson, spent Sunday in Grenada, as he frequently does. He says the "more" he comes the better are his chances.

We are indebted to Miss Kate E. Cuff for an invitation to be present at the commencement exercises of the senior class, Grenada Female College, May 27th. The class roll will consist of ten young ladies.

City Colored School Closes

The commencement exercises of the city colored school opened Sunday afternoon at 3:30. Rev. E. A. Mays, former pastor of Vincent M. E. Church, delivered the sermon befitting the occasion to a packed audience. His text embraced three texts. His subject was "work your own garden". Rev. Mays is a splendid platform speaker and is well at home on any text of scripture he undertakes to discuss. In his discourse he left the audience with many thoughts which he presented in a very striking way. To give a few excerpts of his address, "In life, we meet with two classes of people; one lives to make a living, the other to make a life. Our happiness and success in life will depend largely upon the goal we set before us. The road we travel contains both warning of danger and evidences of safety ahead. Signs along the way proclaim the failure of men who have preceded us and hold forth cheering notices of the successes of others. If we can have eyes with which to see and ears with which to hear we can find abundant help in carrying forward our purpose in life in order to make life count". The sketch of Ahab's life as presented in first Kings is worthy of study, not because of any success attending him, but rather because he was a monumental fool. Here was a man who did not know when he was well off. A man whose life was wrapped up in things, not thoughts. His happiness was dependent upon the external rather than the internal. Recently at a banquet given in his honor in New York City, John D. Rockefeller, Jr. said, "I don't envy my father his mother, for I have one just as good. I don't envy my father, his wife although she is a good woman. I have a wife just as good. I don't envy my father his children for I have the best children in the world, but I do envy my father the opportunity and the necessity he has when a boy of earning a fortune and making good in life". Yet the very thing that John D. Rockefeller, Jr. envied most in his father is the thing which every youth has and does not known it. The entire discourse was happily received.

On Monday evening at 8:15 the graduating exercises in which 9 girls and 4 boys participated was presented to an audience at the school auditorium where standing room was at a premium. The participants on this occasion had their parts well prepared and entertainingly presented. The music was splendid. Rev. G. M. Chisholn, pastor of Vincent M. E. Church, delivered the annual address to the graduating class

Mrs. Elizabeth (Weathers) Wilson of Cairo, Ill. comes back again to the home of her birth. She makes these trips occasionally, particularly to visit her father, Rev. J. M. Weathers and other relatives of this city. Marital relations changed her location several years ago but she can never forget the home ties that are so deeply imbedded in her nature. We are glad to learn that she is doing so well. She was educated in our city school here several years ago, and has adopted teaching as her vocation in life. In order to be thoroughly and well prepared she continues to take regular courses of instruction in some of the best schools in the north. She is by nature and ability well adapted to the school room as an instructor. She will remain in the city eight or ten days then she will return to Cairo, Ill. Her father will accompany her back home to stay a while.

Miss Clyde Golden of this city has returned to her home for a vacation after having been engaged in another part of the state teaching school. The indications are that she will remain here through the summer months.

1 year guarantee against road hazards

We are now selling the world's best tires —Michelin—with a 1-year guarantee against blow-outs, cuts, stone bruises, under-inflation and other road hazards

MICHELIN TIRES

YOU simply cannot lose when you buy Michelin Tires here. The super quality which is built into them assures you of more mileage unless one of your tires is injured by accident. But even accidents cannot rob you of full mileage when you deal here, because we give you a guarantee certificate with every Michelin, guaranteeing the tire for 1 year against blow-outs, cuts, stone bruises, under-inflation and other road hazards. That's some proposition, isn't it?

During the past two years, reports have been received from over 3000 motorists who were testing Michelins against other makes. These motorists were picked entirely at random; therefore you may be confident that your experience will be like theirs. More than 80% of them reported that Michelins gave more mileage than the other tires they were using. Of the remainder, only a few said Michelins gave less mileage; and these few exceptions, we are sure, were due to accidents. That's where our 1-year guarantee against road hazards comes in.

Michelin has the best tire; we have the best selling policy. The combination gives you the greatest certainty of tire satisfaction. Remember that when you need tires.

The Ward of Robbers' Roost

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Possessing characteristics that have earned him the nickname "Go Ahead," George Morton, Virginian, is the recipient of a communication (intended for his father, who is in the East) from Tom "Fair," asking the senior Morton, for sake of old friendship, to send some one to rescue his foster daughter, Stella, a relative of the Mortons, from a band of outlaws of whom "Fair" is the leader. "Fair" himself cannot bring her out, being watched by an enemy whom he designates only as "Jim." In the absence of his father, Go Ahead decides to go for Stella. As a cowboy, but with credentials as an official of the United States Secret Service, he leaves for Loboville, the place designated, with a colored attendant, Caesar.

CHAPTER II. — At "Robbers' Roost," the outlaws' stronghold, Fair explains the situation to Stella. The girl, eighteen years old, does not want to leave her adopted father or give up the free life she has led, more like a boy than a girl.

CHAPTER III.—Fair, at Jim Barker's direction (the "Jim" the outlaw had referred to, and the sheriff of the county) sends a gang to run a shipment of rifles and ammunition into Mexico and return with a consignment of whisky. He puts a man, Wade, whom he knows is his enemy, in charge. Unknown to Fair, Stella, with Wade's connivance, rides, dressed as a boy, with the whisky runners. Fair's messenger returns with the news that Go Ahead is on his way.

CHAPTER IV.—The bandits' errand is successful, and the party brings up at Barker's ranch. There Wade refuses to allow Stella to return to Robbers' Roost, making a proposal of marriage, which the girl refuses. Wade declares he will force her to marry him, and threatens to attack her. They struggle.

CHAPTER V.—Go Ahead comes on the scene, witnesses the struggle and overcomes Wade. He has no suspicion of Stella's sex. She tells him her name is "Bob." According to arrangements with Wade, Barker appears and is also disarmed by Go Ahead. A Portuguese cowboy, Diego, fires at Morton, and "Bob" escapes, to follow the gang to Robbers' Roost. Go Ahead also gets away and goes after the girl.

CHAPTER VI

WHEN Stella leaped from the window she intended to run to the corridor for Wade's horse, which she knew was tethered there. But when she saw another standing close by, held in place only by his trailing bridle, she guessed it was Barker's, jumped on it and sped away.

She felt no qualms at leaving Go Ahead to restrain Wade and Barker, and she had forgotten Diego. But before she had gone a hundred yards she remembered him and checked her horse. Diego was armed and was watching Go Ahead (whose identity she did not know) appeared to be a stranger; he did not know the ins and outs of the ranch house. Diego might ambush him and— She would go back and fight it out with him! It was all right for a girl to run away, but she was not a girl; she was a man. Men stood by each other to the death; she would do the same.

Her hand dropped to her belt—and found nothing; and she remembered that Go Ahead had failed to give her back her pistol. Except for a small sheath knife she was unarmed. Her going back would merely add to the difficulties her champion might find in getting away. He was a man, all right; no doubt he would manage things satisfactorily—if she did not go back to hamper him. On the whole—Unwillingly, she spurred her horse and raced away to the north once more. But from time to time she looked back wistfully. For some reason her heart was unusually heavy within her.

Meanwhile Go Ahead had settled with his enemies and was riding on her trail.

As he leaped to the saddle of Wade's horse and raced away he saw, afar to the north, the trail of dust that marked Stella's course; and instinctively if not quite automatically he followed it.

For a while Go Ahead rode on silently, not hurrying to overtake the fleeing youngster but merely following his trail. He was thinking deeply; but his thoughts were clearly not unpleasant, for after a while a slow smile curled his lips.

"Some boy," he muttered in admiration. "Some boy! I'll tell the world so. Good looking, too. 'Bob!' Good name for a likely lad. Seems to fit him somehow. Wonder what the big lout was jumping on him for? Darn it! I ought to have shot the cuss."

As he talked to himself G. Ahead was cantering along watching the dust line before him. Undoubtedly it was getting thinner, perhaps because he was falling behind or perhaps because the soil was changing and Bob's dust did not so readily rise in the air.

Meanwhile, Stella, pausing for a moment on the crest of the slope, had seen, two or three miles ahead, at the crest of the next swell, the men whom she was pursuing. They seemed to have halted for a moment. The distance was, of course, too great for her to make out the reason for their stopping (anywhere except in the desert they would have been practically invisible to her); but she guesesd that they were looking back for her and Wade. So she rode faster than before.

In the second "valley" she came up to them and tailed on to their plodding procession.

No one spoke to her as she came up; and she spoke to no one.

There was no particular need for speech, and your plainsman is conservative in the use of language—except of course when he goes to town and paints it red. After a while, however, Black Kennedy, a special crony of Wade's, who had known all about the plan to hold Stella at the ranch, dropped back to her side.

"Where's Wade?" he asked.

Stella glanced at the questioner slowly and indifferently. "Wade?" she echoed. "Left him at the ranch." Stella knew that Kennedy was close to Wade, and she had decided to hold her tongue about the latter's conduct toward her until she got back to the Roost.

"Humph! Where'd you get that horse?"

"At the ranch. My horse was lame."

Kennedy knew that the girl's horse was lame, and he knew also how it had come to be lame. What he wanted to know was how Stella had managed to get another horse after he had personally seen to it that every other mount at the ranch house except Wade's had been sent away. Frowningly he stared at Stella—and made another discovery.

"Where's your gun?" he demanded abruptly.

Stella raised her eyes slowly and looked the man in the eyes. "I let Wade have it," she answered coldly. "He wanted it. Anything else you want to know?"

There was a lot more that Kennedy wanted to know, but he saw no way of learning it without resorting to extreme measures, which would certain stir up opposition by Stella's friends in the party. He was sure that something was wrong, but he could not imagine how the girl had got away from the ranch house except by Wade's consent—and he could not imagine Wade giving that consent. His inability to make even a guess as to what had happened cut the ground from under him.

"No!" he answered at last, frowning heavily. "I ain't got anything else to ask you just now. But I reckon I will have later." With a flirt of his reins he cantered back to the head of the column, where, as Stella noted, he began to talk angrily with Gopher Joe, another crony of Wade's.

Half an hour later a rider coming from the direction of the Roost appeared in the distance and, coming nearer, turned out to be Jack Green. There were greetings this time, of course, for Green had been away for a month or more, and his friends wanted to know where he had been and what he had done while he was there. Green had answers ready, and after a few moments the party moved on, leaving Green to go his own way. He simply waited till Stella, who at sight of him had taken pains to fall well behind the others, came up to him. Then he fell in beside her and began his tale.

"Did a young puncher show up at the J/B ranch while you were there?" he questioned cautiously but eagerly. "A regular he-man about twenty-five years old?"

Wonderingly Stella turned her eyes on him. "I guess he did!" she exclaimed. "There couldn't be two of them there? Do you know him? Who is he?"

"He's your forty-leventh cousin from Virginia—the one your dad sent me East after."

"Good gracious!" Stella could swear on occasion; brought up as she had been she could not have failed to pick up more or less of profanity; but she seldom used it, for Fair objected. This time, however, her startled feelings found relief in the strongest oath at her command—an oath that one of the younger bandits had taught her years before when she was very young, explaining at the time that it was such an awful "cussword" that she must never use it except under the very gravest provocation. Long since she had learned that all this was merely the conception of humor held by the young scapegrace, but she had never entirely got rid of the impression that it made upon her mind, and in moments of stress she still resorted to it. "Good gracious," she swore, once more. "You don't mean it?"

"Yes, I do!" retorted Green. "He ain't a bit like most eastern dudes. He's all right, he is. An' your dad hoped I'd get to the ranch before you left, so's I could fix things up. But my horse put his foot in a gopher hole and broke his leg and I had to go back for another, an'—"

Stella was not listening. Her thoughts were moving fast. "What did dad want you to fix?" she questioned eagerly.

"Eh? . . . Oh! He wanted you to join him an' go East with him right away while you've got the chance by being away from the Roost. He said he knew you wouldn't want to go, but that—"

"Got a spare gun?" Stella's cut-in was abrupt.

"Ye-es. But—"

"Give it to me!" Stella snatched the revolver from Green's hand almost before he could get it from his holster. Then she jabbed it into her own and whirled her horse to the rear. "Let's go," she cried over her shoulder.

Green's wits were not so quick as Stella's, but his muscles worked automatically; and in a second he was by her side. "How come?" he questioned.

"Oh, come on, goose! We'll talk later."

"Jest as you say, Bob; jest as you say." Green also spurred his horse and the two shot away.

But it was not to be just as Stella said. The volte-face of the two was quickly noticed by the others, and a chorus of shouts rose behind them. "Hold on! Come back!" Where you goin'?" rang Kennedy's voice above the rest.

Stella turned in her saddle and waved her hand impudently. "Going back to the ranch," she yelled. "Want to see Wade again." Then she turned her back on the men and scurried away as if everything was settled.

But out of the corners of her eyes she kept watch to the rear.

Green did the same; and a moment later he snickered. "You ain't stopped them none," he remarked. "Most all of them are after us."

Stella did not answer immediately. But she chirruped to her horse, and he let out another link of his speed. Then—

"It's Black Kennedy's doings," she explained. "He was real peeved when I came up a while ago. He wanted to know, you know. And I didn't tell him, not so's you could notice it. He's a pal of Wade's, and I reckon he knew the dirty trick Wade and Jim Barker tried to play on me at the ranch and couldn't make out how I'd got away."

"But—but—but—" Green was gasping. "How did you get away?"

Stella chuckled. "That cousin of mine you brought from the East dropped in. Oh, yes! He dropped in, all right. And what he did do to Wade and Jim Barker was a plenty. Hello! What's that?"

"That" was the whine of a bullet traveling overhead. The horses of the fugitives were better than those of the pursuers and had been steadily widening the interval between the two groups, and Kennedy, in the lead, but finding himself falling behind, had sent a bullet as a warning.

"Declaration of war," grunted Green.

"That's what. Black Kennedy means business. Well, let him mean. I'm not going back to the Roost. I hated to go back and make more trouble for dad by telling him what happened at the ranch, and I was only doing it because I hadn't anywhere else to go. Now I have. I've got a cousin to go to, and—oh—yes, I found out this morning that I've got a fortune waiting for me in the East; that's why Barker wanted to marry me. I'm going to find— What's his name?"

"Name's George Ashmead Morton; but everybody calls him 'Go Ahead' an'—"

"'Go Ahead'!" Stella shrieked with laughter. "Oh, oh!" she choked. A moment later, "some of those Eastern dudes must be real sensible, after all. . . . Well, I'm going to find dear Go-ey, and go-ey East with him."

"Jack," she cried, "there's no use in your coming with me. I know all I need to know about Go Ahead. And dad needs you. You make a motion to try to stop me and slip up on it, and then stop and wait for the others and tell them—"

"Nothin' doin'!"

"Yes, there is. There's a whole lot doing. And there'll be a lot more if you don't obey orders p. d. q. Kenendy's shooting at you; not at me. He knows mighty well that Barker doesn't want me dead. I wouldn't be a bit of use to him dead. Now you drop out and tell some lie—"

Once more Green shook his head. "Nothin' doin'," he repeated. "Positively nothin' doin'."

Another bullet whistled by, and as if it were a signal Stella whirled her horse and drove him with stunning force against the mare that Green rode, bowling the smaller animal completely over.

Green, good horseman that he was, reacted instantly but hopelessly; barely did he succeed in jerking his feet from the stirrups and springing clear as the mare crashed to the ground.

Stella's horse reeled, too, from the shock, but quickly recovered himself, and, touched by the spur, shot away like an arrow. As he went, Stella, crouching low in the saddle, called over her shoulder: "Bawl me out to the boys, Jack. Give me a roasting. Understand?" An instant later she topped the rise up whose flank she had been racing and vanished from the sight of the pursuers.

And then, as she straightened up in her saddle, she faced Go Ahead, who had been racing up the other side of the slope to learn the meaning of the popping rifles that he had heard.

Voice of the People

—a reply to a very unjournalistic phrase that appeared in The Grenada Sentinel on page two of the May 11, 1928 issue. A reply with a twofold purpose, namely, a vindicative letter and a direct rebuttal that— "We spend money like drunken sailors".

In these modern days it still seems that there are a few people and organizations that have not adopted the modern attitude towards the present generation. Little do people realize that the youth of the land has acquired new ideals and manners far more beneficial than those his grandfathers used.

This youth has stretched his arms and gone to seek new fields to conquer—this youth has broadened his education—this youth has learned to distinguish right from wrong—this youth has learned the reward of clean living.

Where can you find this type of lad? Why my dear man, you yourself are paying taxes to support an organization that fosters this particular type of lad, the United States Navy - the greatest organization for the building of character and fitness that this great Government can offer its young men - and yet you a so called modern newspaper, still persist in using that stock phrase, "spends money like a drunken sailor".

Drunken sailors, bah - why there are men in the Navy now that could deal you cards and spades in whatever you choose to debate, and you are sober.

Do you realize that if it were not for these so called drunken sailors as you call them, how secure would that patriotic newspaper of yours be - how secure would your home and family be - how secure would you be?

Inquire from some of the large financial institutions that have built up their great business solely from the sailor's savings and the figures will be a revelation to you. Inquire from some of the parents that have boys in the Navy and learn how much money their boy sends home each month to contribute to their support. Look around you, probably some of your own revenue is derived from some of these so called "money spending sailors".

Now my dear man, I think that you owe the boys in blue and yourself an apology. The logical thing that you could do is to retract that phrase from your newspaper - in fact take it out of your vocabulary, as the new phrase goes, "it isn't being done these days".

Editor Sentinel:

One of our readers, Mr. J. W. Yeager, of the U. S. S. Mayflower, informs us that there appeared in The Grenada Sentinel, on page 2 of your May 11th, 1928, issue, the term, "We spend money like drunken sailors."

Statements of this nature are misleading and tend to create a false impression of the Navy in the minds of the public. For this reason, it has been the practice of Our Navy to bring to the attention of editors, authors, newspaper men, and others that Navy men object strongly to such a phrase.

The average modern bluejacket is a clean, respectable, law-abiding American citizen, and he is very desirous of being regarded as such. He usually comes from a good home, and it is insulting to both him and his parents to have the Navy's personnel trade-marked in this manner.

We are sure that, in future cases of this sort, you will respect the wishes of our bluejackets.

Sincerely yours,
OUR NAVY

PLAN LAW JOURNAL

University, Miss., May 29.—A Mississippi Law Journal will be edited by the Law School of the University of Mississippi with the aid of the members of the State Bar Association, according to plans which were recently completed at the meeting of the State Bar Association. This journal will appear quarterly and will be the medium of both the Ole Miss Law School and the State Bar Association.

With the inauguration of this journal the Ole Miss Law School, the fourth oldest in the United States, will take its place on a par with the other prominent law schools in the nation. This law school has for years been recognized as one of the leading schools of law in the South, and especially prominent will be its position when the $150,000 appropriated by the Legislature to its use is expended.

The purpose of the Mississippi Law Journal will be fourfold. The first of these purposes will be to bring the lawyers of the state in closer contact with the members of the Law School, the second to contain the minutes of the meetings of the Bar Association and a record of its work during the year; the third to furnish a medium through which comment may be made by the lawyers and by the members of the Law School as to the present condition of the system of jurisprudence in this state and how this system can be improved; the fourth will be to keep its readers in touch with the important changes that are occurring in the law in the United States and in this state especially. Through the last of these purposes, the Law Journal will be of material benefit and assistance to the lawyers of the state.

It will contain comments on the most important cases decided by the State Supreme Court and also the new statements of the principles of the law as compiled by the American Law Institute - which statements will hereafter be cited in the opinions rendered in the Supreme Court. These restatements of the law will be annotated by the members of the faculty of the Law School, the annotations being made of decided cases of the Mississippi Supreme Court and statutes in effect here. Other attractive features of the Journal will be the publication of descriptive accounts of the various barristers of Mississippi who are always trying to heighten the ideals of the profession and give to it a broader outlook, and also occasional reminiscences of the high points of the profession during the early days of the state.

Every Mississippian who is interested in the jurisprudence of the state should feel a personal interest in the launching of the Ole Miss Law Journal, and should willingly lend a few moments of his time in helping the Law Journal to become established in Mississippi. The Journal will appear four times each year, and the subscription price therefor will be three dollars a year. Plans are now under way for the publication of the first issue of the new Journal.

HALF-HEARTED
Never Felt Well

"I don't see why women will drag around, in a half-hearted way, never feeling well, barely able to drag, when Cardui might help put them on their feet, as it did me," says Mrs. Geo. S. Hunter, of Columbus, Ga.

"I suffered with dreadful pains in my sides. I had to go to bed and stay sometimes two weeks.

"I could not work, and just dragged around the house.

"I got very thin. I went from a hundred and twenty-six pounds down to less than a hundred.

"I sent to the store for Cardui, and before I had taken the first bottle I began to improve. My side hurt less, and I began to mend in health.

"Cardui acted as a fine tonic. I do not feel like the same person. I am well now, and still gaining."

Her home is in Biloxi where her family is prominent.

Mr. Thompson came to Grenada several years ago to establish the E. C. Thompson Lumber Co., a business that has met with unusual success. He has thoroughly established himself in the confidence of the public and has made for himself a wide circle of friends here.

REDPATH WEEK OPENS HERE TOMORROW, JUNE 2

Grenada's Redpath Week which opens here tomorrow, Saturday, June 2nd, at 3:30 p. m. will be well received by those who attend as the program has been so arranged that everyone will find some of the entertainments just what they desire to see.

The program includes a Junior Town for the children each day at an hour to be announced later, this to be in charge of a Junior Supervisor who is a specialist in children's work and entertainment.

The Arcadia Novelty Company will give its splendid program on the opening afternoon. This company is composed of four young lady artists and as they have been in the chautauqua fleld for a number of years the character of their program is sure to please everyone. It is a versatile program which includes solo numbers as well as numbers of harmony.

Dr. Hilton Ira Jones' lecture, "Self-management", on the opening night is one that every person in Grenada should be pleased to hear as it contains something that is valuable about health as well as about success. Although Dr. Jones is one of the world's greatest scientists he uses layman's words and his lecture holds the attention of children as earnestly as it will that of their fathers and mothers.

The Metropolitan Singers on the second afternoon present a vocal program both of classical and semi-classical numbers and the fact that Hugo Brandt, noted Polish composer, is director assures success of this program. The Chimes of Brittany, beautiful musical production rendered by this company in the evening, is one of the greatest numbers ever on a chautauqua plaform and no one should fail to attend this program.

In the afternoon of the third day the Faubel Entertainers will present a fun-day program and at night will be the great dramatic success "Smiling Through", the play in which Jane Cowl, artist, made her success. This play teaches a great lesson and is sure to be wonderfully received as Smiling Through is enjoyed by everyone who sees it.

Artists' day is the fourth day and the Casford's Concert company will have charge of this program. This company is composed of real artists and their program is certain to be well received by those who enjoy real music and classical entertainment.

On the night of the fourth day, Mr. Plattenburg's lecture will contain much of educational value as well as of interest and entertainment. Mr. Plattenburg is a recognized authority on community building and is sure to have something of interest for Grenada.

The last day's program contains a magic and mystery number in the afternoon by the famous Mardoni and in the evening the great comedy success, "Tommy", will be presented by a splendid New York cast.

The entire program is wholesome, entertaining, informative and inspirational and should appeal to everyone who attends.

RURAL MAIL CARRIERS MET AT WINONA, MAY 30

The rural mail carriers of this, the fourth congressional district, met Wednesday, May 30, at Winona in their annual convocation. Mr. J. E. White, carrier on route 2, out of the Grenada office, is the secretary and has been for several years.

There is no government service that touches the life of the business public of the United States like the postoffice service. There are about 56,000,000 people served at their home in the cities and towns with mail by city carriers and about 32,000,000 served at their homes by rural carriers. The postoffice department is run not so much as a matter of postoffice business but as one of real service, one of education, one of disseminating information to the people.

The rural carriers of this congressional district measure well up to the standards set by the best of the country. Those out of the Grenada postoffice are among the best of the best. Rural carriers are expected to be accommodating and careful in all things. Those out of the Grenada office are that and much more. There are six rural mail routes out of Grenada and two star routes.

The government is doing all it can all the time to make more complete the postal service and particularly the rural mail service and it can be stated for a certainty, that the carriers out of the Grenada office and this district are well abreast of all the government demands.

W. M. U. ADJOURNS MEET IN GRENADA

The meeting of the second district Baptist Woman's Missionary Union, comprising ten different associations adjourned Tuesday afternoon after a very interesting session held at the First Baptist church in Grenada. There were 118 registered delegates. Mrs. M. F. Doughty, of Shaw, presided. There was celebrated at this session the ruby anniversary of W. M. U., 40 years of service. One of the most interesting addresses was made by Mrs. W. S. Allen, a Brazilian missionary. Miss Fannie Taylor, of one of the young people's organizations of the Baptist church, also delivered a highly instructive and most appealing address. The members of the local church took a keen delight in playing host to the meeting. The next meeting was voted to go to Leland.

There are no set of more live or wideawake church workers than the ladies of the First Baptist church of Grenada. They are heart and soul for every movement which they regard as for a deeper awakening of the religious life of the land and particularly do they believe that when the Savior said "go into all the world and preach the gospel" that He meant just what one would understand by that statement if it were made today. These good women took a keen delight in playing hostesses to this meeting and left nothing undone which they could do to make it a success from every viewpoint.

WANT OTHERS TO KNOW I AM APPRECIATIVE

I feel that anybody who knows me knows that I am more than thankful for every courtesy and kindness shown me while I was in the Grenada Hospital. Especially am I grateful to the good doctors and the fine and sweet natured nurses. God was good to me in aiding the doctors to help me get well and to get out. I want everybody to know that the Grenada Hospital is one of the best and nicest, I know, anywhere. The doctors cannot be excelled. With a heart full of gratitude to my friends and all and with an earnest prayer in my heart for everybody,

I am, sincerely,
J. M. COOLEY,

GRENADA YOUTH WRITES SONG

The Sentinel is glad to note that Mr. Julian James, son of V. R. James, Grenada County's worthy and most capable circuit clerk, has written a song entitled, "Sweetheart of T. K. O". With him in the preparation of this song, which has been set to music and copyrighted, was Mr. Oscar Hurt. Mr. James has been connected with one of the leading retail shoe stores of Memphis for several years. He is deservedly popular. He is unusually polite and always obliging and considerate, attributes that always enable a young man to draw to himself a circle of worthy friends. The Sentinel is also in receipt of a 60-page booklet of the Theta Kappa Omega fraternity which carries Mr. James' picture on one of the front pages as "Imperial Master". It is quite a compliment to him to be chosen by his fellows to this important place and is but another evidence of his ability and his capacity for accomplishing things. A sketch of his life is given which fixes his birth August 25, 1902.

The Sentinel congratulates this young man and sincerely hopes that life may always deal kindly with him.

SCHOOL BOARD TO MEET

SEDGWICK PLAYERS SHOWING THIS WEEK

The Sedgwick Players are in Grenada this week. It is one of the best tent shows on the road. It is giving the show going people of this vicinity what they want. The performances are of a high order and it appears that every feature on the program is meeting with the most hearty approval of the big crowds who are there at every performance. The company makes a fine impression, and those who may sometimes think that they want something of a higher order, are just deceiving themselves for the reason that they get in this show what they would pay a dollar, or maybe two dollars, for in a city in some theater. It is a good show. Those who like shows and feel that they are rejuvenated and refreshed by seeing them are missing something if they do not come to this one.

Mr. G. V. Rapier, the advance man for the Sedgwick Players, is on to his job. He is pleasant and affable and is an artist in putting a good taste in the mouth of everybody about what is coming.

WILSON CHOOSES MANAGER

Hattiesburg, Miss., May 26.—Colonel Dick Wooton, member of Governor T. G. Bilbo's staff, and erstwhile candidate for Congress from this district, has been named as one of two joint campaign managers for Congressman Webber Wilson in his fight for Hubert D. Stephens' seat in the United States Senate. Colonel Wooton will go to Jackson Tuesday to take active charge of the headquarters office.

Hilton Butler, private secretary to Congressman Wilson, will serve as executive secretary at the central campaign headquarters. Colonel Wooton states that a rally of Mr. Wilson's friends was held in Jackson Thursday night, at which time the strategy of the campaign was outlined and plans discussed.

Following adjournment of Congress next week, it is expected that both Senator Stephens and his young opponent will begin active campaigning. The name of Colonel Wooton's associate in charge of the central office, could not be learned. It is known, however, that he comes from the northern portion of the state.

MANY PEOPLE BUYING ELECTRIC REFRIGERATORS

That so many people can afford to buy electric refrigeration units is one of the best illustrations of the soundness of business conditions in Grenada according to H. C. West, of Mississippi Power and Light Co. distributors of General Electric Refrigerators.

"We have had a wonderfully successful season," said Mr. West, "and while the surface of the electric refrigeration field has only been scratched, the mass of people are taking over the machines almost as rapidly as delivery can be made.

"The reception accorded the General Electric Refrigerator in Grenada has been greatly appreciated by all of our officials. We are furnishing all the information possible to the buyers of machines and the conclusion we reach, after talking to hundreds of men and women, is that nearly all home owners want electric refrigeration the year round.

"We have been impressed, too, by the fact that comfort and convenience comes first with many families and our sales in all parts of the city indicate that business is on a sound basis here."

An additional factor is the special time payment offer now being made.

CARD OF THANKS

ILLINOIS CENTRAL SYSTEM — COURTESY EFFICIENT SERVICE ALWAYS

Saving Time

The speeding up of freight transportation is a notable example of the many improvements made in railway service in recent years. Nowadays nearly all freight trains operated between important commercial centers move on fast schedules, and ontime arrival at destination is a rule to which exceptions are few.

Time is an important element in business. Faster freight service has the effect of bringing buyer and seller closer together. It lessens the amount of material tied up in transit at any given time, and it speeds up business in general. Moreover, when railway freight service is both fast and dependable, as it now is, the necessity for storing large stocks of goods is obviated. Producer, manufacturer, merchant and consumer benefit.

On the other hand, the cost of providing dependable fast freight service is greater than the cost of providing no less dependable but slower service. That is because the fast train must carry a smaller load in order to maintain its schedule and because it must run as scheduled whether a maximum load is available for movement or not.

While the railroads have been striving to improve their service and increase its efficiency in this and other ways, a sustained effort has been made by shippers and the general public to have railway freight rates reduced. This effort has been largely effective. Through rate adjustments, here on one commodity and there on another, the whole trend of freight rates in recent years has been downward. It is obvious that these adjustments downward cannot continue indefinitely without seriously affecting the ability of the railroads to give fast and otherwise good service.

As the principal beneficiaries of good service and low rates, shippers and the general public must make an important choice. If further rate reductions are most desired, there must be a sacrifice in the quality of railway service. If good service is most desired, there must be a postponement of further rate reductions.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

L. A. DOWNS,
President, Illinois Central System.

JESUS FACING BETRAYAL AND DEATH

LESSON TEXT—Mark 14:1-42.

GOLDEN TEXT—Not what I will, but what Thou Wilt.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Last Supper With His Disciples.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Last Supper With His Disciples.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Loyalty in Times of Testing.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—"The Fellowship of His Sufferings."

I. Judas' Bargain With the Chief Priests (vv. 10, 11).

This black crime was committed immediately following the beautiful act of devotion by Mary (John 12:1). The motive actuating Judas was avarice.

II. The Last Passover (vv. 12-25).

1. The preparation (vv. 12-16).

In reply to the disciples' inquiry as to where they should prepare the Passover for Him, Jesus told them to go into the city where they would meet a man bearing a pitcher of water, whom they should follow. In the house to which they were thus led would be found a guest chamber, a large upper room where they could make ready the Passover.

2. The betrayal announced (vv. 17-21).

The betrayal was to be by one of the disciples who was eating with Jesus. This betrayal had been predicted, though such prediction did not interfere with the free act of Judas in the betrayal.

3. The sacrament of the bread and cup.

These were symbols of His broken body and shed blood by which He had made atonement for man's sins.

III. The Cowardice of the Disciples Foretold (vv. 26-31).

In spite of their cowardly turning from the Savior, He assured them that after His resurrection he would go before them into Galilee. Peter protested against such an act of disloyalty by the disciples and assured the Lord that though all the rest would forsake Him, yet he would not. The Lord showed him how little he knew, even about his best resolve, telling him that on that very night he would deny Him thrice.

IV. The Agony in Gethsemane (vv. 32-42).

1. Jesus Christ's suffering (vv. 32-34).

(1) The place (v. 32).

The Garden of Gethsemane, an enclosure containing olive and fig trees, beyond Kidron, about three-fourths of a mile from Jerusalem. Gethsemane means olive press. Edersheim says, "It is an emblem of trial, distress and agony.

(2) His companions (v. 35).

He took with Him the eleven disciples that they might share, so far as possible, this sorrow with Him. Being human, He craved human sympathy. He bade them watch with Him.

(3) His great sorrow (v. 34)

This is the same as the "cup" in verse 36. It was not primarily the prospect of physical suffering that was crushing him; it was His suffering as the sinbearer—the sensations of his pure soul coming into contact with the awful sin and guilt of the world.

2. Jesus Christ praying (vv 35-42).

His only recourse in the hour of supreme need was prayer. In the great crisis of life we can only find help as we go to God in prayer (James 5:13).

(1) The first prayer (vv. 35-38).

a. His posture (v. 35).

He fell on His face prostrate to the ground.

b. His petition (v. 36).

"Take away this cup from me." By the cup is meant His death on the cross. It was most grievous to Him to face this shame, but He pressed on, knowing that for this cause He had come into the world (John 12:27, 28, cf. Heb. 2:14). He prayed that the hour might pass from Him. The burden was so great that it seemed His life would be crushed out. His prayer was heard (Heb. 5:7). When God hears prayer, He grants the petition desired (I John 5:14, 15). Angels ministered to Him, giving the necessary grace to endure to the end (Luke 22:43).

c. His resignation (v. 36).

He knew that his death on the cross was the will of God the Father, for He was the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world.

d. The disciples rebuked (v. 37).

He singled out Peter, since he had been the most conspicuous in proclaiming his loyalty (John 13:38).

e. Exhortation to the disciples (v. 38).

Watch and pray lest ye enter into temptation.

(2) The second prayer (vv. 39, 40).

He withdrew the second time from His disciples and uttered the same words in prayer. This was not vain repetition, but repeated request.

(3) The third prayer (vv. 41, 42).

He uttered the same words in his third prayer (Matt. 26:44). He told the disciples to sleep on and take their rest as the hour had now come for His betrayal.

10 YEARS AGO IN GRENADA

From the Files of THE GRENADA SENTINEL

The following Grenada boys are at home from Camp Beauregard: H. L. Webb, J. E. Perry, Fred Nason, "Tot" Williams, Tom Irby, "Boots" Jones and W. S. Heath. They report everything moving nicely at the camp.

The Sentinel failed to chronicle the enlistment of Stokes Kimbrough at the local recruiting station some three weeks ago. Stokes enlisted in the cavalry and went from here to New Orleans where he was transferred to Jacksonville, Fla., and at which place he is now stationed. Stokes was not of age and not subject to draft and his enlistment adds another star in Grenada County's crown of glory.

Hon. Jno. F. Allen, candidate for congress, spent a couple of days in Grenada County this week. He visited Holcomb Wednesday morning and on that night made a speech at the court house in Grenada.

Wm. C. McLean, Jr., was graduated in law at the State University this week and reached home Wednesday. Campbell is a fine young man and made a most creditable record at the University.

Miss Constance Gladney, a teacher in the Durant High School, is in Grenada at this writing the guest of Miss Margaret Thomas. Miss Gladney is en route to her home at Sardis.

Mrs. J. G. Wright went up to the University this week to be present at the graduating exercises of her son, Donald. He made an exceptionally fine four year record. Mrs. Wright is the mother of five as fine boys as there are anywhere on top of this earth and three of them are now in Uncle Sam's service in various capacities.

Mr. and Mrs. Wormack Smith are in Grenada with Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Lickfold. They arrived from Camp Beauregard on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Russell McLean, who has been attending the Gulf Coast Military Academy, is home for the vacation period with his parents, Judge and Mrs. W. C. McLean.

Miss Carrie Doty, who has been attending to her duties as a teacher in the Moss Point Schools in a most approved manner, during the past school year, arrived home this week and is now with her parents, Hon. and Mrs. W. S. P. Doty. Miss Doty has accepted a position in the Grenada High Schools for the next session and this will enable her to be at home all the time.

Mr. Ed Heath attended the Tri-State Retailers' Convention held in Memphis this week. Mr. Heath was honored by being put on two different committees, which goes to show that his ability as a shoe man is appreciated abroad as well as at home.

Mrs. R. A. McRee has returned from a visit at Jackson where she went to be present at the graduation of her son, Richard. While in Jackson she was the guest of her married son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. McRee. Mr. McRee holds a responsible position with one of the largest banks of the Capital City.

Miss Jessie Barfield Adams was a visitor in the City Beautiful several days last week. Miss Adams is from Winona.

GARNER BREAKS 49x50

Leading all the shooters in his class, Class B, and topping all in Class A at the Grenada Gun Club shoot last Friday afternoon, George Garner took away the honors with a total score of 49x50. His score won for him one of two fine hams awarded by the club for high gun in each class. J. H. Parrish and Walton Todd, with 47x50 each, tied for high in Class A and divided the second ham.

The score of Henry Ray, Jr., 12-years old, who broke 20 out of 25 targets and led many of the older shooters, was the feature of the shoot.

Scores Friday were as follows:

George Garner	49x50
J. H. Parrish	47x50
Walton Todd	47x50
W. J. Jennings, Jr.	46x50
L. J. Doak	46x50
J. E. Tyler	46x50
F. R. Lickfold, Jr.	44x50
E. E. Wilkins	43x50
Shade Steele	41x50
R. L. Bingham	41x50
J. W. Bradley	40x50
W. E. Roberts	33x50
F. R. Lickfold, Sr.	23x25
Henry Ray, Jr.	20x25
H. J. Ray, Sr.	16x25

Years of Service in Model T Fords

Expenditure of few dollars may enable you to get thousands of miles from your old car

THE Model T Ford is still a great car. It led the motor industry for twenty years and it is used today by more people than any other automobile. More than eight million Model T Fords are in active service in city, town and country, and many of them can be driven for two, three and five years and even longer at very small up-keep expense.

The cost of Model T parts and of necessary labor is unusually low because of established Ford policies.

New fenders, for instance, cost from $3.50 to $5 each, with a labor charge of $1 to $2.50. Tuning up the motor and replacing commutator case, brush and vibrator points costs only $1, with a small charge for material. Brake shoes can be installed and emergency brakes equalized for a labor charge of only $1.25. A labor charge of $4 to $5 will cover the overhauling of the front axle, rebushing springs and spring perches, and straightening, aligning and adjusting wheels.

The labor charge for overhauling the average rear axle runs from $5.75 to $7. Grinding valves and cleaning carbon can be done for $3 to $4.

A set of four new pistons costs only $7. For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have your motor and transmission completely overhauled. Parts are extra.

All of these prices are approximate, of course, because the cost of materials needed will depend on the condition of each car. They show, however, the low cost of putting the Model T Ford in shape for thousands of miles of additional service.

See the nearest Ford dealer, therefore, and have him estimate on the cost of re-conditioning your Model T Ford. He will tell you, in advance, exactly how much the complete job will cost.

Suffering With SICK HEADACHES

Mr. Charles F. Todd, of Estesburg near Waynesburg, Ky., says:

"I was suffering with nervous headaches. About once a week, I would have these headaches, and have to quit work, and go to bed for about twenty-four hours. I would have pains in my neck, and right behind my right ear.

"A merchant at Estesburg told me to try taking Black-Draught, which I did.

"It relieved me. From that time on, I would take Black-Draught as soon as I felt like I was going to have one of those headaches—and they wouldn't come on.

"Every few weeks, I take three or four doses of Black-Draught, and I feel so well, and do my work, and don't lose any more time with headache."

from the crop estimates and other sources the probable amount of surplus that must be kept from the market, and the amount of stabilization fund which will be required to handle it. It then levies an equalization fee of so much per bale, which is to come from the producer. With the stabilization fund created by the equalization fee the board withholds the surplus and sells the domestic supply".

There is a great deal of prophesying about what Mr. Coolidge's veto of the farm relief bill will cause the farmers of the west to do in the pending presidential election. Nobody knows what will be the result. There is no use denying the fact that the farmers of the country, and particularly those of the west, feel that they are the government's step-child. It may be in regard to the unrest among the farmers that. as has been too often the case in the past, certain self-constituted leaders are overstating the real attitude of the farmers. Anyway, the farmers of the west have the Republicans up a tree. My own opinion is that some way will be found by our Republican friends to keep them in line so that they will vote the ticket straight in November. Nevertheless there are better guessers than I have shown myself to be who assert that unless Lowden or Dawes is nominated by the Republicans, there will be enough of the western farmers to support an independent ticket or vote for the Democratic candidate provided that party adopts a real up to date, dead in earnest platform, to defeat the Republican nominee. The fact can not be concealed that Al Smith is feared by the Republicans. It is claimed for Al that he has shown himself to be not only the friend of the class who are too frequently overlooked by politicians after they win, but that he has been their advocate—he has done worth while things for the underdogs and the middle classes. The campaign promises to be one of unusual bitterness and strife. Let it be hoped that 48 per cent of the voters will not decide who is to be the next President and the next Vice President as was the case four years ago.

From what can be gathered here, those who hope for a straddling of issues and for a ducking, on the 18th amendment if Smith is nominated, are doomed for disappointment. It is being said by those who ought to know that the Democrats are going to adopt a platform that will sound old time Democratic doctrines and that it will make prominent the tariff and what the party thinks ought to be done for the farmer. Josephus Daniels, a pronounced dry and Jones of Texas are being prominently mentioned in inner circles for the vice presidency.

Daniels wrote dry in the Navy. He wrote it and it was dry. Yet he has announced on divers occasions of late that he would support Smith if the latter is named, an event that seems now to be inevitable. Daniels would add much strength to the ticket and would serve to silence those southern leaders who are threatening if Smith is nominated.

In speaking of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill it was noted throughout the country that Wall Street was nervous while the President had the bill, but the day before his veto came in and when it was certain that the veto was being born, Wall Street, the place where the balance of the country is fleeced, rallied and the market went up the line.

In the very earliest days of this government and when the "Assumption Act" was before congress in the days of George Washington's administration, big finance in New York and Philadelphia threatened the country if the law was not enacted. The then big bankers and financiers (they would be mere pygmies as compared to the lions of finance that roar on Wall Street today) had a majority of the scrip which the Assumption Act was intended to take care of. It is the same old game that is being played today.

Congress passed a tax reduction bill, and as usual in such cases, the larger concerns and those who have the largest incomes fared the best. The man with a few thousand dollars income got no reduction whatever. One of the things which the bill carries is the abolition of the tax on automobiles—amounting to about 10 per cent of the value of each car. This will be appreciated by everybody, for the "everybodys" now own or drive a car.

Four and one half million dollars was voted by the lower house to build a highway from the Nation's Capital to the tomb of George Washington at Mt. Vernon. It is estimated that the proposed road will cost $400,000 per mile. If the road is built as planned, there will be no highway in all the world to equal it.

Muscle Shoals, as has been the case since Woodrow Wilson went out of the White House, claimed much attention from the lawmakers. A bill was finally passed that puts the Federal government on the job to making nitrates. The President has not yet signed on the dotted line.

The investigation by the senate of campaign expenditures by the candidates seeking the nomination for President at the hands of both parties found nothing particularly startling to anybody except Senator Tom Cat Heflin, Thus far there have been no revelations of any scandals with the money spent by any candidate. Hoover leads all in expenditures. Something near $350,000. was shown to have been spent by him and his backers. Smith comes next with something over $200,000.

There were many pleasant goodbyes as the members of the senate and house parted to go home. The people who read the speeches these men make in congress imagine sometimes that they are hardly on speaking terms, and would be more than surprised at the friendships that exist between men in opposite political camps. I believe it is generally agreed that there is a finer feeling of real fellowship between members of both houses of congress today than for many years. This is highly creditable to both parties.

Mr. Coolidge's words, "don't choose to run" still have many of his own party guessing. Many wonder, with all the words in the English language, just why the President did not make a heavier draft on his vocabulary and say, "just won't run; you can't make me." Nevertheless there is a strong sentiment to make the President eat his words, and but for the fear of the effect of the "third term" battle that would be waged by he Democrats, it is conceded that many of the leaders would be more insistent on the President doing what he said he would not do. The shadow of Al Smith is giving the Republicans most serious concern, and now that so many of the western farmers are on the war path, those who plan Republican national campaigns are more than ever disturbed. It is generally conceded that Mr. Coolidge was honest in his statement and that he will not allow himself drafted.

in Kansas and California are some pumpkins and we would all like to have a job in one like them in Mississippi. Saw some niggers working in these plants right by the side of white folk, but we are still for the book plant. When we see you again we hope you will have ready the report you want us to give out to the public".

"P. S. Our expense bill will come by the first freight. Good thing you got that lumberman to loan us some money before we started. But Governor jist had a bully time".

Speaker Bailey's committee will say about this: "Dear Mister Speaker: We got aboard a train and went to Kansas. Saw John Brown's picture right in the Governor's office and it made us sick at the stomach. We went out to the book plant. It was working. There was one man oiling the machinery and another man in the office oiling the employes—he had a big roll of state money all marked, '$5,000'. Saw some of the most ignorant chillun in Kansas we ever saw. They were overfed somebody told us on books. In California, we found those dinky Japs sitting right up in the schools beside the white chaps, and some of them studying out of the same books with white folk's chillun. Ther were little Chinese with their queues in these schools, and some nigger chillun, too. The books were sorry. They were put together just like almanacs. We have not changed our minds Mr. Speaker, and please tell it to the world that Mississippi don't want what we saw in Calyfornia. It costs each of us something over $600. apiece. We enjoyed what we seen. Bilbo sho has not made anything by his antics."

It is written, it seems to me, in the stars, that there will be no printing plant erected in Mississippi for the purpose of printing school books and selling them at cost during the present administration, and the sooner all hands and the cook recognizes this, the better for those who must supply the breakfast table. The Governor was nearer a book plant during the session recently adjourned than he will ever be again.

State capitals have their gossip just like towns and neighborhoods, and usually the things gossiped about most and which are supposed to interest the general public are what the Governor says and does and what the prognosticators prognosticate. Just now the colleges are to the forefront and this is because, I suppose, a well defined rumor has it that Gov. Bilbo is sharpening his knife for the scalp of Prof. Joe Cook of the Hattiesburg College. Likewise it is being said that the Governor expects to hang the presidential hides of all college presidents on a willow limb. But it is hardly probable that the Executive will be able to remove either Dr. Fant of the M. S. C. W. or Dr. Hume of the University for the reason that his friends are not in control of the board of trustees. The law fixing the terms of the board of college trustees was passed during the Brewer administration. It was a skilfully drawn measure and very wisely provided that the terms of the different members should not expire all at the same time. The point, it appears, in framing the law, was that an incoming governor might not be able to play politics at least at once with the colleges. But the board of trustees of the college over which Prof. Cook presides is not the general board, and it is stated that Prof. Cook has himself to thank for its not being under the general board of trustees.

There has been no one wise enough yet to suggest what appears to be a satisfactory solution of the revenue question which hangs like a pall over the door of the present administration. The truth is the appropriations are so large that the old state is going to have to strain herself to get the money.

erected an American Legion hall. This OF COURSE was erected as an athletic building; but, since its erection has been used for nothing but a PUBLIC DANCE HALL. One or two basket ball games were staged when it was first built.

The sheriff of the county in which this town is located is a Christian gentleman. He is trying to run the bootleggers out of this county and stop the illicit sale of liquor within its borders. Since his election at every dance sponsored by the Legion or the Auxiliary, this man has had a score or more plain clothes men about town. Each time arrests have been made. A lot of ugly rumors about the young boys and girls and the older men and women of this community have swept over the town after each dance.

At one dance it was rumored that a sweet young girl, a member of the graduating class, had to be carried home by two officers as she was too drunk to stand. It seems this had no foundation. But it did not keep this young girl's name from being handled about town by every Tom, Dick and Harry, and added in no way to her charm, or her reputation.

At the recent dance, April 27th, the officers were on hand, liquor was found, and several young boys, all minors, were implicated. The parents of these young people were broken hearted. Care was added to the already seeming too heavy load that all who try to rear children must bear.

At a recent drinking feast, prior to this one, a young man from a nearby town sat in one of the drug stores with his whiskey flask exposed to view. The young lady who sat opposite him, (and she was a lady for she felt very much embarrassed as this boy had come to her table unbidden) spoke to him about it, and he laughingly pulled his flask out and offered her a drink.

There is no excuse to be offered. A PUBLIC DANCE is a drinking orgy, the picture show reeked with the fumes of vile liquor because the dancers were there waiting for the dance to start. The whole town is kept awake with screaming auto horns and loud laughter.

I have a sweet young daughter whose heart, she feels, is broken because she is not allowed to attend these dances. I have two young sons who are just waiting until they get BIG enough to go to the dance. The commander of the Legion is a county official. The chairman of the executive board is a steward in one of the churches. A deacon in another church is a prominent member. A Sunday school superintendent is a member. The leaders of the women (they are still girls of course) that sponsor and help direct, are a Sunday school teacher, and a church organist. A steward of one of the churches sold tickets at the door. The marshal of the town is a member of the legion.

In God's name will you tell me how I am to raise my children, try to teach them the right things, and the worthwhile things of life? Can I send my daughter to Sunday school to be taught by the leader of the dance, and THEN not let her go to the dance because it is WRONG?

The habitues of the dance hall say these rumors are started by "gossipy old hens who know nothing of the affair".

Those same gossiping old hens suffered death itself to bring sons and daughters into the world, not to be drinking, dancing fools, but to make and keep this world a decent place in which to live. At whose door will you lay the blame, the callow youths that think it is smart to go to a dance and get tanked up, and bring shame and sorrow to their mothers? Or is the blame to be laid at the door of the men and women who place this temptation, with all its allure or seductive music, before the young people of their town backed up by the "Best People" who promote them.

I am inclosing a signed statement giving you the name of the town and the people mentioned, not for publication but for your protection.

CORPORATION ACT POPULAR

Jackson, Miss., May 26.—The law recently enacted by the Mississippi legislature, known as the "Corporation Act" the administration and execution of which was placed in the office of the Secretary of State, although in active operation less than a month, is becoming very popular in commercial and industrial circles in Mississippi.

Like all laws making radical changes in existing statutes, there are many features of this new corporation law yet to be understood by the general public, and as a result of this condition, hundreds of inquiries are coming into the secretary of state's office weekly and much correspondence necessitated. All of these, however, are gradually being digested, and the organization of this new department is working smoothly, and the vast amount of work incidental to carrying out the provisions of the law is proceeding with little delay or difficulty.

"The general compliance with the 'corporation act' is most gratifying and commendable, and the co-operation given to the officials in charge of this work on the part of the commercial and industrial public is proving very helpful in shaping up the system to be used for the convenience and information of those such references" said Walker Wood, Secretary of State, in discussing this new branch of his department.

"Under the provisions of this statute," continued Secretary of State Wood, "every foreign and domestic corporation organized or authorized to do business in this state must file an annual report on or before June 30th of each year, forwarding with such report a fee of $10.00, payable to the secretary of state. These specially prepared blanks for making these annual reports are now being mailed out, and it is desired by the corporation department of the Secretary of State's office that these blanks be used, exclusive of any other form.

"Foreign, or corporations organized outside of Mississippi must file a certificate, designating the Secretary of State their attorney-in-fact, or in lieu of giving to the Secretary of State the power of attorney, they can appoint a resident agent. State corporations that are operating a business with a member of the corporation in charge of the business do not have to file power of attorney or resident agent, but if no member of the corporation is in charge of the business, then they are required to file power of attorney or resident agent with the secretary of state. The object of his provision is to establish responsibility and upon whom process can be legally served.

"Attorney General Knox has held, in an opinion to the secretary of state, that banks and insurance companies that make reports to the state banking and insurance deparments, do not come within the provision of the new corporation law.

"The new law provides that a non-par stock corporation may be organized, and under the old law this was not permissible. The new law also provides that the incorporators may designate the amount of stock that will be paid in before business is begun. Under the former law, twenty-five per cent of the capital stock had to be paid in.

"The new corporation laws give to Mississippi as modern and liberal laws as those of any state, and will clear the files of the secretary of the state of many inactive corporations."

CROPS ARE LOOKING UP

During the past two weeks, cotton and corn have taken a jump upwards and there is just that inspiration and spirit about what the farmer can see as he views his growing corn and cotton and other crops that encourages and strengthens for the work that needs to be done. The crops are clean. Much of the cotton is worked out and at least fully 75 per cent of the cotton has come up to a good stand. Corn is late, and 1928 will be another one of those years in which there will be of necessity a great deal of late corn. The farmer that makes sure of his corn and that also sees to it that he raises hay and other similar provender so as to take care of his cows and hogs is making sure of a steady feeling next fall when the banks say "your note is due".

Found: One Leg

Rumor ran rampant in Yazoo City last week following the finding of a puffed and putrid leg in Broad Lake. Wild tales of murder were hushed by announcement of a local doctor that he had amputated the leg and given it to a negro boy to bury. Lazy, the boy had pitched his bundle off a nearby bridge.
